

Abstract of the Disclosure

A system for dynamically allocating buffers between components in a computer system is described. The system uses matched sets of bi-directional buffers to control data flow between the processor and the computer bus. The dynamic buffer allocation system
5 allows simultaneous data transfer from the processor to the buffers, and from the buffers to the computer bus.

10

S:\DOCS\REC\REC-3860.DOC
060600